

FARMING FASHION

Wool

Resources for Approaching Design within a Fibreshed System

The following is a list of resources for learning, understanding and reference regarding regenerative approaches to fashion design. This list is not exhaustive and is meant to act as a starting point for ongoing exploration. For more information about regenerative design within a fibreshed system, you can purchase Farming Fashion: Wool on the South East and South West England Fibreshed websites.

READING

Fletcher, Zoe, 2018. Designing for Breed: A design-oriented toolkit for understanding purebred British wool for knitwear.

Fletcher, Kate and Tham, Mathilda, 2019. Earth Logic: Fashion Action Research Plan.

The Lissome: Print magazine at the intersection of sustainable fashion, regenerative design and system transformation. thelissome.com

LISTENING

Conscious Chatter: Working to deconstruct how oppressive systems impact the sustainable fashion space. consciouschatter.com

For the Wild Podcast: Episode 200, Rebecca Burgess on Soil to Soil Fibre Systems. forthewild.world/listen/rebecca-burgess-on-soil-to-soil-fiber-systems-200

Reseed Podcast: Episode 10, Regenerative Textile Economies. reseed.ca/listen/regenerative-textile-economies

Weaving Voices Podcast: Transforming our thinking both as citizens and material culture makers and users. fibreshed.org/programs/education-advocacy/weaving-voices-podcast

TOOLS

Centre for Sustainable Fashion: Investigating the creative practice in fashion micro and small enterprises as a potential driver for change. sustainable-fashion.com/fjsp

Common Objective: Practical information, tools and intelligence on the materials used in fashion. commonobjective.co/hubs/fibres-fabrics

International Wool Textile Organisation: Fact sheets developed in consultation with wool textile experts around the world. iwto.org/resources/fact-sheets

The Sustainable Fashion Toolkit: A free online toolkit bringing together sustainable fashion resources in a centralized location. sustainablefashiontoolkit.com

The Woolist: A research project documenting the 72 British pure sheep breeds. thewoolist.co.uk

ORGANISATIONS

Union of Concerned Researchers: An independent global community of over 200 researchers and fashion practitioners. concernedresearchers.org

The Dyers Circle: A hub in which to discuss sustainable alternatives for colouration within the fashion industry. dyerscircle.squarespace.com

Fashion Declares: An organisation looking to create a fair fashion industry that puts people and planet first. fashion-declares.org

Fashion Revolution: An organisation campaigning for the rights of garment workers. fashionrevolution.org

southwestenglandfibreshed.co.uk
southeastenglandfibreshed.org

Funded by  Farming
the Future